Position on Employee Compensation and Benefits

Background
A positive and socially responsible workplace aims to compensate its employees fairly and equitably. Providing fair and competitive pay and benefits to employees can be shown to support motivation, attraction and retention, all of which help a company maintain a competitive position in the marketplace. At the same time, employees who are compensated fairly and supported through additional benefits are able to make a positive contribution to the economic life in their communities as consumers of local goods and services.

Relevance
As the largest, most diversified healthcare products company, Johnson & Johnson has a considerable impact on local communities through the individuals who form our Family of Companies. Our compensation and benefit programs motivate and empower employees to contribute at their best. In doing so, we advance our purpose of blending heart, science and ingenuity to change the trajectory of health for humanity and help advance prosperity around the world. At the same time, as a large and responsible corporation, we make a positive contribution to society by helping our direct employees and their dependents along the path to maintaining physical, mental, emotional and financial well-being.

Guiding Principles
As stated in Our Credo: “We are responsible to our employees who work with us throughout the world … Compensation must be fair and adequate and working conditions clean, orderly and safe. We must support the health and well-being of our employees and help them fulfill their family and other personal responsibilities.”

Our Position
We support the right of individuals to fair compensation for their work and aim to provide competitive compensation and valuable benefits for employees at all levels. We always observe legal minimum wage provisions and often exceed these. Through our Global Compensation Framework (GCF), we reward employees in a way that recognizes their contributions to our business and is consistent worldwide. We are committed to pay equity, including gender and racial/ethnic group pay equity, and seek to ensure through our practices that pay decisions are based on merit. Our benefits packages aim to improve the quality of life for employees by providing practical support for family, health, education and long-term financial management needs. To better support our employees, we seek to understand their entire lifecycle needs at work and help enrich their lives and those of their loved ones with a holistic range of benefits, starting with health and well-being and extending to retirement planning and finances. We believe in investing in our people to create a virtuous cycle that pays us all back: the healthier our employees and their families, the healthier our business—and the healthier our world.
