

Position on Transparency

Background

All companies, especially public companies, should be accountable to their stakeholders for their business activities. Transparency in financial and other dealings demonstrates accountability, fosters trust and enables stockholders and stakeholders to make informed decisions about their interactions with a company.

Relevance

At Johnson & Johnson, the world's largest and most broadly based healthcare company, we believe in conducting our business with integrity and earning the trust of the people we serve. For us, this includes complying with applicable legal, regulatory and industry code requirements, and upholding the highest ethical standards in every aspect of our business and in every market where we operate. Part of doing so is being transparent about the way we do business, about the way we comply with laws and regulations, and about payments, pricing and all forms of financial contributions in the countries in which we operate and to the communities we serve.

Guiding Principles

As stated in Our Credo: "We are responsible to the communities in which we live and work and to the world community as well. .... We must be good citizens — support good works and charities, better health and education, and bear our fair share of taxes."

Our commitment to transparency is also embedded in Johnson & Johnson's Code of Business Conduct.

Our Position

At Johnson & Johnson, we value transparency as the basis of trust building with all those engaged in any way with our business. We strive to hold ourselves accountable by providing information about how we function across our operating companies and markets.

We recognize and comply with the multiple reporting requirements that regulatory bodies governing our three business segments define; in addition, we publish a wide range of voluntary as well as mandatory disclosures. Our key disclosures are summarized below:

Financial Disclosures: We report on our financial results and other material disclosures as required for a U.S. public company by the Securities Exchange Commission and the New York Stock Exchange. Our filings are available on our corporate site.

Sustainability Disclosures: We publish our annual Health for Humanity Report in line with leading global standards (Global Reporting Initiative, UN Global Compact, SASB) covering a broad range of non-financial updates and performance.

Environmental Disclosures: In addition to our Health for Humanity Report, we disclose to CDP Climate Change, Water Security and Forests frameworks.

Payments to Healthcare Providers: In the United States, we disclose financial information under the Physician Payments Sunshine Act. We also voluntarily publish aggregated data for our companies covered by Open Payments. In Europe, we comply with the European Federation of Pharmaceutical Industries and Associations healthcare payments disclosure framework with disclosures on the Janssen website. Other countries or regions have similar legal or industry code disclosure requirements that we have worked to help establish—and that we comply with—for fostering transparent business practices. For more information, see our Position on Responsible Interaction with Healthcare Professionals.

Clinical Data Transparency: We support the overall principles of greater clinical trial data transparency, including registration and disclosure of clinical trial results in external registries; publication of results in peer-reviewed journals; and sharing of clinical study reports and participant-level data from clinical trials. Clinical trials conducted around the world by our Pharmaceutical, Medical Devices and Consumer Health companies are listed on the U.S. National Institutes of Health’s website, www.clinicaltrials.gov, the European Clinical Trials Register, and country-specific and regional registries across the globe.

Political Engagement: As a global healthcare company, Johnson & Johnson works with many stakeholders in the markets where we operate, and we take a stance on and support certain public policies in the United States and in different parts of the world as they relate to our core business of advancing health. Our stakeholders express interest in knowing what our policy positions are and the ways we contribute to advancing those policies. We disclose this information annually, including our philosophy on political contributions, our strategic priorities and our contributions data. Please visit Political Engagement for more information.

Pricing Transparency in the United States: We know that in today’s complex healthcare system patients and families are increasingly concerned about their ability to access and afford medical innovation. These concerns have rightfully led to calls for greater transparency in the world of healthcare, including prescription medicines. That is why the Janssen Pharmaceutical Companies of Johnson & Johnson publishes its annual Janssen U.S. Transparency Report, which demonstrates our commitment to responsible business practices that put patients first—including how we invest our resources, price our medicines, and help people who need Janssen medicines get access to them. We issue this report because we believe open dialogue and partnership are essential to addressing the challenges in our healthcare system. Fundamentally, we believe transparency is a positive step toward a more sustainable, results-based health system that delivers greater access to care at a more manageable cost.

Tax Transparency: We take our responsibility as a good corporate citizen very seriously, including paying our fair share of taxes, among them corporate income taxes, employment tax, social contributions, import and customs duties, and indirect taxes. We value and strive for cooperative and transparent relationships with taxing authorities, and we support tax policies that encourage innovation and growth. Our commitment to these responsibilities is embodied in our Tax Policy.

Policies and Positions: We publish a comprehensive list of policies and positions covering aspects of sustainability and environmental, social and governance topics so that our stakeholders can know where we stand on important sustainability issues. See our ESG Policies & Positions webpage.
